Made of teak wood that we have left to its natural beauty, the Suar Double Bench is awash in elemental character thanks to the patterns and colors flowing along its surface, markings that only Mother Nature could create so beautifully. This is a solid chunk of wood that we have sourced from Asia from harvested trees that have already fallen, which most designers would overlook. Because it is made of a single piece of wood, this is one of our wood benches that can command the center of a space by looking lovely from all sides. The clean lines and the powerful woodgrain make this a shoe-in for the Phillips Collection modern organic ethos.
