The Johnson chair has a classic style that fits well into transitional decors. Inspired by one of the chairs that launched mid-century style, a design that helped set new standards that reshaped our understanding of furniture construction. The Johnson maximizes seat comfort by following the contours of the human body. The legs are thin tube steel, creating a now classic effect of minimizing the presence of the support. The foam padding in the seat is upholstered in a leatherette, giving it a cool appearance as well as a cozy seat.
